

Find the right option FOR YOU.

Match your family size to your income level to find your plan options.

- 1 Add up the 2013 annual incomes (before taxes) of all family members to calculate your total annual pre-tax household income.
- 2 Use your family size (number of people in your household) and your total annual household income to find your plan options.

- 3 Review your plan options above based on your family size and income level.
- 4 Find more details on each plan on the next page.

*The percentage is related to the national Federal Poverty Levels (FPL) produced by the federal government.

 Other health plans such as Indian Health Services, Veterans and other community-sponsored programs are also provided by the government. Reach out to your local government to find the best options available to you.

In some states, as part of the Affordable Care Act, in 2014 Medicaid will expand eligibility to include more low-income adults. Eligibility criteria varies by state. Please check with your local Medicaid Office. Other insurance plan options are offered to individuals, families and groups such as private insurance or employer-sponsored plans.

Source: <https://www.healthcare.gov/> and Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services

This brochure and the information within are provided as informational resources only. The content is from other public sources and is reproduced here for the convenience of consumers. Walmart does not guarantee accuracy of this information.